EOC Activity

Exploring Healthcare Through English

As part of the English Only Challenge (EOC), SMEAG students visited UCMed (University of Cebu Medical Center) for an educational tour that combined language learning with real-world experience. Throughout the visit, students communicated in English while exploring the hospital's modern facilities and learning about its healthcare services. The activity encouraged students to build confidence, expand their vocabulary, and develop communication skills in an authentic environment.

Learning Through Observation

The visit allowed students to gain a better understanding of how a modern medical center operates. By observing different departments and listening to informative presentations, they experienced how English is used in professional healthcare settings. This hands-on activity broadened their perspectives while strengthening their practical language skills.

Communication in Action

Students participated in guided discussions and interactive activities throughout the tour, giving them opportunities to communicate confidently in English. Working together with classmates, they practiced listening, asking questions, and expressing their ideas while exploring one of Cebu's leading medical institutions. The experience demonstrated how language learning becomes more meaningful when applied in real-life situations.
